

Jersey Youth Slain in Fight In Boathouse

Policeman's Son Victim of Early Morning Battle After Noah's Ark Club Meeting in Jersey City

Two Held in Shooting

Sixteen Witnesses Seized and 2 Officers Suspended for "Neglect of Duty"

A free-for-all fight early yesterday morning in a boathouse known as The Ark, at the foot of Seaville Avenue, Jersey City, resulted in the death of one man and the arrest of two others, one of them charged with murder. Two Jersey City policemen have been suspended as a result of the affair and sixteen other persons are being held as material witnesses.

The dead man is John England, twenty-six years old, of 351 West Side Avenue, Jersey City. He is the son of a Jersey City policeman. He was shot in the abdomen and died in Greenville Hospital a short time later.

The shooting occurred shortly before 3 o'clock in the morning and after the Noah's Ark Club had had a meeting there. Detectives, hearing a fusillade of shots, ran to the boat house and found England lying on the floor. The two men who were arrested were John J. O'Grady, twenty-five years old, of 236 Sixth Street, Jersey City, and Timothy Sheehan, thirty-nine years old, of 322 Edge Avenue, Jersey City.

England, according to the police, is the one who shot England. He denies it. Sheehan is the owner of The Ark. He is charged with violating the liquor laws, for, according to the police, some of the men in the boathouse were intoxicated.

Sixteen men, said by the police to have been in the boathouse at the time of the shooting, and were later taken from a Greenville car and detained as witnesses.

While the disorder was in progress, it is alleged that Patrolmen John J. McGee and John J. Murphy were near enough to the scene to have prevented the shooting. They are suspended, charged with neglect of duty.

Woman Named by Peggy In Chicago for Revenge

Charlotte Johnson. Linked in Suit With Joyce, Now Married and Very Indignant

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
CHICAGO, June 19.—Peggy Upton Archibald Hopkins Joyce, the wife of a lawyer and alleged hectic love affairs, may look forward to a warm session if Judge Sabath rules she must come here and submit to cross-examination in her petition to divorce her husband, Stanley Joyce, to pay $10,000 a month alimony and $100,000 attorney and "research" fees. The research part means the quest for other women with whom Joyce is alleged to have been friendly and in indiscreet witness to refute his sensational charges.

Prominent among those who will greet Peggy will be former Charlotte Johnson, who is now registered here as Mrs. Frank G. Johnson. She was until a dazzling blonde, Joyce is alleged to have bought her off when he desired to marry Peggy. She is now married. For a time she and her husband lived in Detroit, but later went to New York, where he is engaged in the dry goods business.

Mrs. Gordon is out for revenge. She says she has nothing against Peggy, but who ever dragged her into the mess, will have to suffer. She is fighting trim and mean to make it excitingly hot for the persons responsible for digging up her past.

Peggy's lawyers are said to have found another woman who is declared to have figured largely in Joyce's affections and on whom he is said to have squandered large sums of money. This woman is said to be living in a far Western city, and it is predicted she will prove a highly important witness for Peggy.

Bonus Test Begins To-day

Suit of Wendell Against Westchester Bank to Open

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
ALBANY, June 19.—The initial test toward testing the validity of the act granting New York men who fought in the World War a state bonus will be taken to-morrow, when the Appellate Division will meet in extraordinary session to hear argument in the case instituted by State Comptroller James A. Wendell against the Westchester County National Bank.

The action is a "friendly" suit arranged to bring the bonus act before the courts. The Westchester bank recently made a $25,000 bid for bonus bonds, but refused to accept them for the reason that they might prove worthless if the bonus act at some time should be declared unconstitutional.

Wild West Road Agents Invade Paris Boulevard

Special Cable to The Tribune
Copyright, 1921, New York Tribune Inc.
PARIS, June 19.—The Paris police have thrown out a dragnet for five "Wild West" highwaymen who invaded the Boulevard St. Martin this morning, smashed a jeweler's window and made off with gems valued at upwards of 500,000 francs. The job was so well organized that the police believe the thieves were strangers in Paris, having been transplanted from some other country, where they had acquired a practical working knowledge of their trade.

The five men, masked and armed, drove up in an automobile to the curb in front of the store at 8 o'clock. While two of them started for the jewels the others cleared the streets with gun-fire, scattering passersby, who looked on helplessly until the robbers had escaped.

The weapons and the automobile were found later by the police. The car had been wrecked. In it were two Browning automatics, a carbine and a Mauser pistol. Paris, unaccustomed to such excitement, has been greatly stirred by the robbery.

Woman's Sudden Death in Hotel Puzzles Police

Mrs. Florence Dorre, Separated From Husband, Taken Suddenly Ill Soon After Engaging a Room

Circumstances surrounding the sudden death of Mrs. Florence Dorre, thirty years old, who died at the Douglas Hotel, 207 West Fortieth Street, early yesterday morning, are being investigated by the police. Although indications point to heart disease, an autopsy will be performed this morning.

Mrs. Dorre, whose the police assert recently was separated from her husband, registered at the hotel early Saturday morning. Shortly after she had been shown to her room, a bell boy passing through the corridor heard groans and immediately notified the management. Benjamin Dvorat, manager of the hotel, after failing to find any response to questions asked through the door, entered the room with a pass key. He told the police he found Mrs. Dorre unconscious on the bed.

Dr. Benjamin Katz was summoned and said that she was suffering apparently from heart disease. He prescribed some medicine and advised the hotel manager to procure a nurse. After the nurse arrived Mrs. Dorre appeared improved, although she was still unconscious.

Shortly after midnight Mrs. Dorre's condition suddenly became alarming and Dr. Warren Ogden, of the New York Hospital, was summoned. The woman died before Dr. Ogden arrived and the body was ordered removed to the city morgue for an autopsy.

Mr. Dorre, husband of the dead woman, called at the Twenty-third Street police station yesterday afternoon. He is said to have declared that he had not been living with her for some time and did not know where she had been staying prior to registering at the hotel.

Mrs. Geraghty Calmly Faces Husband's Fight

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
BOSTON, June 19.—Julia French Geraghty is not the least disturbed over "Handsome Jack's" plan to claim the custody of their eight-year-old son.

In fact she doesn't believe Jack has a ghost of a chance of getting the boy. She is banking on the little fellow, now with her grandmother, Mrs. Silverman LeRoy, in Newport, for a large part of the happiness which she is sure is to be hers when she marries Howard T. Williams, the Boston insurance man, in September. Little Jack or "Sonny," as she prefers to call him, will then make his home with his mother in Waban.

"We're going to live a quiet, natural life," she says. "Not all so-called society people go at top notch speed. I'm going to settle down and be a busy wife and mother. We don't know a soul in Waban, no grouse there won't be any set. We picked Waban out because it is such a beautiful, peaceful country."

City Wide Open for Sale of Narcotics, Says Miss Mulhall

Tells of Increased Trade of Physicians Who Traffic in Drugs; Blames Abolition of State Control Bureau

New York is to-day a wide-open city for the sale of cocaine, heroin, morphine and opium, Sara Graham Mulhall, for the last two years First Deputy Commissioner of Narcotic Drug Control, declared at the West Side Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. She blamed this condition upon the recent abolition of the department with which she was connected.

"This was done," she said, "because of the confusion of proposals and interests which followed a reasonable move in the direction of economy by placing drug addiction under the Health Department. Governor Miller finally dismissed the problem by doing away with the existing machinery without providing any substitute."

As an example of the damage which has already been done by the new law Miss Mulhall declared that almost all the sixty-five physicians trafficking in drugs whose business had been practically done away with by the activities of the department in the last two years were known to be conducting a large trade to-day. She spoke of one who in 1919 was prescribing 68,000 grains of heroin a month, in addition to large quantities of morphine and cocaine. A few months ago, she said, he was prescribing 15,000 grains of morphine and nothing more. This, she declared, showed the value of the control which has now been abolished.

Pastor Declares Sims Follows Roosevelt Steps

Says He Rejoices in Finding an American Who Puts America First

The Rev. Dr. Harry Knight Miller, pastor of the Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal Church, Brooklyn, in his sermon last night suggested that if any retiring is to be done as a result of the speeches made by Admiral William Snowden Sims, Secretary of the Navy, Denby and a number of Congressmen "be nominated for that honor."

In his sermon, which was frequently interrupted by applause, Dr. Miller asked, "Is Secretary Denby amazed that at last some one in government circles dare follow the example of Theodore Roosevelt and shame the office, cowardly politicians, who while yelling 'America first' put America last, and who are afraid to rebuke the pestiferous traitors to their country to nurse and coddle hyphenated voters. I thank God that one man has the courage of his convictions to speak out the sentiment of 75 per cent of the people of America in opposition to the 25 per cent who have done all the speaking and made all the noise."

American Line Suffers By German Competition

German prejudice in favor of the partly rehabilitated service of the Hamburg-American Line in conjunction with the United American Line is blamed for the loss of the Minnekahda, which arrived here yesterday from Hamburg with only seventy-two passengers.

She has capacity for 2,200 in the steerage and is credited with being the finest all-sterage vessel now operating in the trans-Atlantic service. She originally was with the Atlantic Transport Line and carried about 200 saloon passengers, livestock and cargo. When the American Line took her over she was converted into a de luxe steerage carrier.

Officers of the Minnekahda said the Hamburg-American Line is advertising extensively throughout Germany that it is back in the trade and is operating with the United American Lines. The company urges all Germans or persons with German sympathies to patronize this service. This the officers hold responsible for the discrimination against the Minnekahda. The American Line has no German affiliations.

The Minnekahda brought a cargo of 5,000 tons, including large consignments of German toys.

Boy Shoots Cousin Playing at Hold-Up, And Flees in Panic

Pulls Trigger Twice on Empty Cylinder; Third Time Gun Explodes and Lad Falls With Bullet in Groin

Joseph Jameson, seventeen years old, of 239 East 114th Street, shot his sixteen-year-old cousin, George Jameson, about 5 o'clock last night while the two were playing with a revolver in the home of their uncle, Frank Teller, with whom Joseph lives. Aghast at what he had done, he ran away. Detectives from the East 104th Street Station are looking for him. George is in Harlem Hospital with a bullet in his groin.

George has come from his home at 316 East Thirty-seventh Street every Sunday to visit his uncle and to see his cousin. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Teller went out. Weary of doing nothing the boys browsed through closets in search of something new and found the revolver.

Here was the real sport. "Hands up!" said Joe and pulled the trigger. The hammer clicked on an empty cylinder.

"You're rotten," said George. "Lemme have it." "Now," said Joe, drawing away. "Here she goes."

"Aw," remonstrated George, "you can't shoot." It was all in fun. Joe insisted on one more turn with the revolver. He pulled the trigger, and an explosion shook the apartment.

George fell with his hands clasped over his stomach. "Terror possessed me," Joe said. "I'm going out!" he cried. And he did.

George staggered to his feet and followed him to the hall, where his cries aroused the neighbors. Joseph could not be found. Detectives Caputo and Dougherty, of the East 104th Street station, were assigned to the case.

Mr. Teller, questioned by the police, said he never had a revolver and did not know there was one in the house.

Bedford Staff To Be Cut

BEDFORD, N. Y., June 19.—Major Amos T. Baker, superintendent of the State Reformatory for Women here, announced to-day that several changes would be made in the institution on July 1. First among these changes will be a reduction in the staff of the institution.

"Certain legislation," Dr. Baker explained, "causes the abolition of several positions, including that of assistant physician, a number of farm laborers and a cut in the staff of matrons."

Major Baker admitted that he had received several resignations to take effect on July 1, but would not give the names of those resigning or the reasons.

Gunman Silhouetted, Robbers Almost Trapped

Witness From House Opposite Gives Alarm; Bandits Flee in Shower of Bullets

The shadow on a window blind of a hold-up man pointing a revolver, observed by Florenz McCarthy, of 210 West Eighty-fourth Street, late Saturday night, almost resulted in the capture of a band of gunners which held up and robbed James Anastasio, of 208 West Eighty-fourth Street, opposite the McCarthy apartment. The latter, with a party of friends, had been lined up at the revolver's muzzle in his home.

Anastasio, with Thomas Greenway, Herman Schwartz and Belle Conley, an actress, were playing cards in the dining room of Anastasio's flat. There was a knock at the door. When it was opened four men entered. They ordered the card players to stand against a wall. One of the robbers pointed a revolver at the victims. They were relieved of money and jewelry totalling in value $1,500.

The robber holding the revolver stood directly in front of a window. The blind was down and he was silhouetted against it. Young McCarthy was in a room of his apartment opposite. He saw the shadow, ran to the street and gave an alarm. Meeting one of the thieves emerging from the building, McCarthy grappled with him, but the man escaped.

Patrolman Richard Henneberry, of the West Sixty-eighth Street police station, and Patrolman William Stobbs, on duty at West End Avenue and Eighty-fifth Street, chased the hold-up men, but they escaped. One of the robbers fired a shot at Henneberry, who fired four shots in return, all without effect.

Miller Censors "Cave Girl"

Film Production Shown at the Executive Mansion

ALBANY, June 19.—"The Cave Girl," a moving picture production of the Inspiration Pictures, Inc., was shown in the state executive mansion here to-night.

Governor Miller was requested to view the picture by Charles H. Duell, president of the Inspiration, Inc., that motion picture producers might get an idea as to what kind of pictures the state and national police to view the picture, which was exhibited in the salon.

At the conclusion of the showing Governor Miller said: "It is clean without a suggestive background."

The showing was made a social event in Albany, the Governor and Mrs. Miller inviting many persons prominent in state and national politics to view the picture, which was exhibited in the salon.

Wife Tried to Stir Jealousy In Stillman

session of the trial held in Referee Gleason's office in Poughkeepsie.

It is his belief that the evidence tended to strengthen, rather than weaken the proofs of Guy's legitimacy. The contradictory testimony of Mary Kelly and Bernard Kelly about the letter known as Exhibit B and the general confusion in Hugh Russell's statements, coupled with the likelihood that his previous statements on Mrs. Stillman's alleged admissions about Guy's paternity, will be stricken from the records, make Mr. Mack confident that his motion will be granted and a verdict returned in favor of the child. If the osteopath's testimony is stricken out there is nothing on the records directly damaging to Guy.

With this new development in the case there is a probability that Mrs. Stillman may never present her side. Proceedings conceivably might be halted if a favorable decision is made as to Guy. Mr. Stillman is known to be reluctant to attend the hearings and face cross-examination. He will have no choice if the suit goes on.

As far as Mrs. Stillman is concerned, no move will be made at this time, barring the possible collapse of the entire action. The defense is determined to offset the statements of the "ladder and keyhole" witnesses. They will produce witnesses of their own to refute the testimony of alleged happenings at Grand Anse and try to prove that the charges were framed up. After the presentation of their side, if the trial goes on, Mr. Brennan will make the dismissal motion. Since the hearings have been on new witnesses have voluntarily come to the defense of Mrs. Stillman.

The report that Mr. Stillman had settled with the mother of three-year-old Jay Leeds for $500,000 was denied yesterday, but it served to bring a report from Mrs. Stillman's friends that she would sue Mrs. Leeds for $500,000 for alienation of Mr. Stillman's affections.

It was admitted by these friends that Mrs. Leeds came to a witness for Mrs. Stillman, the alienation suit might never be filed.

"If Mrs. Leeds has settled for $500,000, she will need the money for herself and son. If she has agreed to go to Europe, she could testify for Mrs. Stillman before she departs. Her going to Europe would not prevent Mrs. Stillman bringing suit against her," said an adherent of Mr. Stillman.

An adherent of Mr. Stillman said yesterday that the banker had a good cause of action against Mrs. Stillman and Fred Beauvais. The same authority said he also regarded Mrs. Stillman's case against her husband and Florence Lawlor Leeds as good.

"But," he added, "there is no case at all against Guy Stillman. None of the evidence used against Mrs. Stillman established proof, in my mind, that Guy is not the son of James A. Stillman."

Cino was charged with suspected felonious assault upon Policeman Thomas Conley. He was arrested Saturday night as he was about to enter the home of his brother, Antonio, of 505 President Street. He denied that either he or his brother-in-law, Julian Arco, who also is under arrest, fired any shots at the policeman.

Responsibility for the shooting of the woman has been placed upon Detective John Conley, of the Bergen Street station. He denies shooting her.
